Permanent Non Surgical Eyelid Lift Treatment

Often known as the “windows to the soul”, there are few parts of the body that are as distinctive as our eyes. Capable of conveying great emotion and displaying how we truly feel, these facial organs are normally what people focus on most whenever they talk to each other or meet someone new for the very first time. It’s hardly surprising then that those unhappy with how the skin around the eyes has begun to change with the passing of time regularly experience lapses in confidence and turn to the world of cosmetics to find a suitable solution.

Permanent Non Surgical Eyelid Lift Blepharoplasty

Traditionally, the most popular form of treating sagging and wrinkled skin around the eyes has been blepharoplasty, a surgical procedure in which excess skin is removed from the eyelids under general anaesthetic.

At Hotaki Cosmetic Dermatology in London, patients can now take advantage of a vast range of nonsurgical techniques designed to draw on the skin’s natural ability to repair itself. This unique treatment can bring about a major improvement in the appearance of hooded brows, baggy skin and crow’s feet and wrinkles around the eyes by facilitating the production of collagen, a protein that is vital in the maintenance of skin that is firm, blemish-free and fully elasticated, and a natural substance that tends to decline with age.

The results of this specialized non surgical permanent eye lift procedure can be achieved in as little as one.

When combined with other forms of nonsurgical treatment, the results of your permanent non surgical eyelids lift blepharoplasty can become even more impressive, leading to a much better outcome for you and a greater overall boost in confidence.
